“NATIONAL WORKSHOP ON FLORISTICS, MONOGRAPHS AND REVISIONARY STUDIES IN THE AGE OF MOLECULAR SYSTEMATICS”

Taxonomy is a science of identification, classification and nomenclature of organism. Though it is a fundamental science, it forms basis for all other applied branches. In this era of biodiversity loss, taxonomy and taxonomist have gained immense importance, as you cannot conserve any organism unless you know its identity. Floristic studies of a particular area forms basis for all applied branches of science such as revisionary studies, molecular systematics, evolutionary biology, chemotaxonomy etc. Taxonomic revisions and monographs are equally important to evaluate phylogeny and evolutionary concepts in particular group or genus. In this modern era of taxonomy, we need support of molecular and chemical evidences to assess exact phylogenetic status and position of species. The proposed workshop is to train researchers and teachers who are working in the field of floristic and revisionary field.

TARGET GROUP:

Research scholars, teachers in taxonomy and Nature Lovers

COURSE CONTENTS:

1. Training students/ researchers/ teachers/ amateurs in basics of floristics, monographs and revisionary studies.
2. Training on how to write a flora
3. Understanding floras, monographs and various aspects of revisionary works.
4. Understanding floristic wealth of India and deliberating on scopes of revisionary studies.
5. Teaching basics of molecular systematics and its application in revisionary studies.
6. Understanding some interdisciplinary aspects in angiosperm taxonomy and deliberating on scope of systematic biology.

ACCOMODATION:

Participants will be provided accommodation and food in the University guest house

REGISTRATION:

The candidate should register through online application by using the link <http://www.unishivaji.ac.in/>. they will be informed about their selection and registration only after online paym ent of Rs. 4000/- on or before 30th January 2018.
