Read the following passage and answer the questions given below.

In India, it has always been the custom to look after the aged. In the days of the joint family, the patriarchs and matriarchs continued to exercise their authority to the last. While the break-up of the joint family, parents in old age continued to live with their children and grand children. But urbanization is changing it these days. A small flat cannot accommodate everybody. Parents are either tucked away in some dark, remote quarter or shared around the year with other members of the family. Inevitably, as urbanization increases, the old in India may find themselves an embarrassment to the young just as in the West. They will have to be sent to old people's homes, not out of callousness but simply because they cannot be accommodated. Even in the countryside, with the cost of living steadily going up, the business of looking after the old is becoming difficult. Doctor's bills are expensive and so are the special foods the old need.

40. What special trait of the days of the joint family has been mentioned in the passage?
- A) In the days of the joint family, the aged were properly looked after.
  - B) The parents exercised full authority over the family.
  - C) The head man and the head woman of the family used to look after the young members of the family.
  - D) The young members of the family were free to have their way.

- A) Urbanization has ended the supremacy of the parents.
  - B) It has broken up the joint family.
  - C) It has created trouble for the elders whom the younger are finding difficult to accommodate.
  - D) Parents are thrown into some dark corner in their old age and are not looked after.

42. In the villages, the business of looking after the aged is becoming difficult because
- A) The cost of living has gone up.
  - B) The villages are becoming crowded.
  - C) The villages cannot provide food and medical care to their elders.
  - D) The old people's homes have come up in the villages.
